

To ensure the leads you deliver to contractors in the 605xx area are high-quality and "closable," you need a vetting process that filters out the window-shoppers from the high-intent buyers.

A solid lead doesn't just have a name and a phone number; it has context. Here is a vetting checklist categorized by the specific needs of roofing and water restoration professionals.

Phase 1: Geographic & Demographic Alignment

- Zip Code Verification: Is the property actually in the target corridor (60525, 60526, 60558, 60521)? Contractors hate driving across the city for a "maybe."
- Ownership Status: Is the person inquiring the legal owner or a decision-maker? (Renter leads are usually dead ends for roofing/restoration).
- Property Type: Is this Residential, Commercial, or Industrial? (Crucial for matching with firms like A-1 Roofing vs. local residential guys).

Phase 2: Intent & Urgency (The "Hotness" Factor)

- The "Why Now" Question: Did this happen after a specific storm event, or is it a "we've been thinking about this for three years" project?
- Active Leaks: For roofing, is there currently water entering the home? For restoration, is there standing water or visible mold?
- Timeframe to Start: Are they looking for a quote for next year, or do they need a crew on-site within 24–48 hours?

Phase 3: Scope & Technical Details

- Service Category:
 - Roofing: Full replacement, minor repair, or just an inspection?
 - Restoration: Water mitigation, mold remediation, or fire/smoke?
- Materials/Specialty: Is it a standard asphalt shingle, or a high-end Western Springs slate/tile roof?
- Safety Data: Are there known hazards (e.g., "The basement was a former chemical storage area" or "The roof has significant structural sagging")?

Phase 4: Financial & Insurance Readiness

- Insurance Status: Has a claim already been filed? If so, do they have a claim number?
 - Adjuster Status: Has an adjuster already been to the property?
 - Deductible Awareness: Is the owner aware they will likely have to pay a deductible? (This filters out "tire kickers" looking for a "free" roof).

The "Lead Grade" Scoring Matrix

Assign points to each lead before passing it off to maintain your reputation for quality.

Score	Grade	Description	Action
9–10	A (Gold)	Owner-occupied, active leak, insurance claim filed, 60525 zip.	Immediate Phone Call
6–8	B (Silver)	Owner-occupied, "thinking about" replacement, no active leak.	Email/Standard Follow-up
3–5	C (Bronze)	General inquiry about costs, no specific damage, looking for "the best price."	Nurture List Only
0–2	Trash	Renter, out of service area, or "just curious" about solar.	Discard

Red Flags: When to Discard a Lead

- Multiple Bid Mentions: "I'm getting 7 quotes and choosing the cheapest one." (High-quality contractors won't want to compete in a race to the bottom).
- Non-Responsive: If they don't answer a follow-up text/call from you, they won't answer the contractor.
- Out-of-Scope: A residential roofer will be annoyed if you send them a 50,000 sq. ft. industrial warehouse lead they aren't equipped to bond.
